Fred MacRae 5.0 out of 5 stars So you might say my needs list included Greetings Reviewer, I have some unique requirements for purchasing a limited offering of watch products. So after much searching I found this Casio Mens watch hybrid. But they thought of that too, as you go through the setup instructions, one of the buttons allows the hands to move quickly forward to the correct time you set. Also, I noticed the hands glow in the dark when exposed to bright light for a short time. This watch is feather weight, you will forget its on your wrist. Plus the wrist band being cloth will cause your wrist to remain dryer in humid or hot weather. I recommend the Casio Mens model AW80V5BV. I had the analog version of this watch a few years ago and I really liked the band although the band only lasted about a year on that one. I have the black version of this watch also which has all the Arabic numerals so the appearance is somewhat different and it has an resin band which Im not at all fond of, but I do like a variety of watches. Ive attached photos of these two resin cased watches along with my resin cased expedition I also recently purchased here on Amazon so that a potential buyer might compare them based on appearances.

Ive always been a Timex guy, but I admit that the Casio watches are considerably less expensive and the digital function is easier to see with aging eyes, but the Timex indiglo is much better than the Casio illumination and the Timex has a sweeping second hand while the Casio watches have omitted this feature and of course the Timex has a more durable band, but I do prefer the velcro quick strap on the beige Casio and of course the Timex also has a genuine crystal which is inset in the bezel to help prevent scratches while the Casio s have dome shaped crystals which I believe are acrylic and would be easily scratched. For the money I love these Casios and recommend them. The hands do glow a bit but not for very long so still very hard to see at night. Another thing I noticed is the watch band material smells after awhile from getting wet. I tried to wash the band with soap and let it dry in the sun but it still smelled like a wet dog. After I had it for a couple months and i had my hand close to my face I wondered what that smell was. I then realized it was the band. The watch is in my dresser drawer now for about three months and I dont think Ill use it again. I love Casio watches and have owned many over the years but this one was just a bad design with the dim light and the band material that gets wet and stays wet. Oh and I did not even get into to how hard it was to set and change alarm or use timer and other functions. I would not recommend this watch. I hate saying bad stuff about a Casio item but they just messed up on this watch. For those of us who like velcro, and not the rubberized bands, I like the watch. Also these bands seem to last longer than the fake leather bands. There are two things you should be aware of. First, initial setup of the watch is not trivial dont lose the directions. You have to set up the bottom digital part of the watch separately from the analog display, and they each work differently in the setup instructions.

There is no knob on the side of the watch to set the analog display. Second, at this price point there is plastic, not crystal, covering the display, and it is fairly soft and can scratch easily. Anyhow, for day to day I have two of them and recommend them with the caveats listed above Well built and feels strong Well built and feels strong. The watch has a light when pressed it lights at 3, 9, and 12 O'clock dials, also the hands glow in the dark so it is very easy to tell the time in the dark. Other features include a telephone memo, where you can store a name and a telephone number. It is very handy to keep favourite numbers before taking out your smart phone etc to look it up or when your phone battery runs out It also features world clock, 30 cities and 29 time zones, very handy if you travel as you can keep the analogue or digital to one zone and the other to another zone. Plus 3 independent alarms, I haven't used these yet. It also features a count down timer, handy when cooking or timing anything, plus a stopwatch. Water resistance up to 50M so it is good for swimming, rain, splashing and car washing. All in all, a good watch for the price. Worth it. Sorry, we failed to record your vote. Please try again I'm very happy with it in all of those respects. I like the slightly unusual colour when else have you seen a beige watch! although that has led to a problem for me personally. My eyesight isn't that great and in not so good light I can't read the time without my specs. To be honest I'd have been better off choosing a watch with a colour where the hands stood out more from the face but that's my problem, but worth bearing in mind if you haven't got 20/20 vision and want to be able to check the time without putting on your glasses. The backlight is bright enough and the luminous hands are visible in pitch black for several minutes. As far as the digital display is concerned, I just leave it set on the date and can't imagine using the data bank thingie.

The alarm is about the usual volume from a watch i.e. I wouldn't trust it to wake me up. I like the canvas strap it should hopefully last longer than the plastic ones from my earlier cheapo Casio watches. I found it easy to set the time and date. Setting the time on the hands i.e. analogue time is easy enough to understand how to do it, but it's a bit long winded. Moving the time back an hour e.g. when travelling back from our holiday meant advancing the hands forward 11 hours, which was a bit of a pain as they didn't move that quickly. Advance 1 minute too far and you've got to go all the way round again. Ah well, it helped pass some of the time on the flight home. Half a star taken off for the above inconvenience and another half off for the price, which having handled and used the watch for a few months, I believe is at least 5 too steep. If the watch is still working after ten years then I'll come back on and give it the 5th star. Apart from my personal issue with the colour, I do recommend this watch. Sorry, we failed to record your vote. Please try again I found it, despite some other reviews, easy to set up and use. It doesn't score 5 stars because of the awful velcro strap and because any replacement straps you want to fit have to be 16mm, not a usual mens size so not a lot of alternative straps available. Sorry, we failed to record your vote. Please try again Keeping good time so far. Sorry, we failed to record your vote. Please try again Comfortable velcro strap too. Sorry, we failed to record your vote. Please try again I like the fact the battery lasts for ten years; but the alarm has failed to wake me up a few times it needs to be louder. Sorry, we failed to record your vote. Please try again Survived sailing, easy to use timer function. Arrived when expected. No damaged, good quality. Satisfied. Sorry, we failed to record your vote. Please try again The instructions are almost incomprehensible to say the least. Looking to give it away! Sorry, we failed to record your vote.

Please try again Sorry, we failed to record your vote. Please try again Great digital and analog Watch for a good Price. Sorry, we failed to record your vote. Please try again Face looks vintage, water resistance is tried and tested on warm and cold waters for periods of time, strap is quality and so is the watch overall. This is a great watch for active people that goes to the gym or plays contact sports, travelers, backpackers, and hikers. I would just say though that the alarm snoozes a few times after the first alarm, and it's confusing to turn it off. The loop of the band is kind of inconvenient to use as well since it's hard for the band to get over it. But still, five stars. Looking forward for Casio to release more watches in this price range on Amazon, especially leather dress ones. Sorry, we failed to record your vote.
